CSC-192 Seminar #3: Emerging Areas for CS Careers

Speaker: Alex Bonnifield, Solutions Consultant, SailPoint

Q1) List 5 non-traditional areas where software Developers can have career in?

1) Project Management: Software project management was highlighted in the video as underrated, where developers can thrive.
2) Cybersecurity: The video also emphasizes role in cybersecurity, including new AI-model detection methods.
3) AI and Data Ownership: Companies are increasingly focusing on data ownership and segmentation in AI.
4) Customer-Facing Roles: customer service and customer problem-solving roles were highlighted in the video as one of the important careers.
5) Government IT Roles: Government jobs offer entry-level positions with promotions.

Q2): Networking ideas discussed during the seminar for Cyber Security/Machine Learning?

1) Sacramento Security Meetup, which a meetup group mentioned as a place to get involved for networking, especially for cybersecurity.
2) OWASP Open Web Application Security Project, highlighted for to connect with peers and stay up to date on security trends.
3) Agile Programmer Group, which is in Sacramento that can help network with professionals in machine learning.
4) Company AI initiatives, which is for AI interested students.
5) LinkedIn and follow-up Groups, the speaker mentioned sharing follow-up networking group suggestions via LinkedIn and email.

Q3): What are a few continuous learning tips discussed during the seminar?

1) Start networking and building your personal brand, which speaker talked about the importance of networking and sharing your work.
2) Exploring specific areas of interest, the speaker mentioned gathering information about specific areas of interest like AI or machine learning or other fields.
3) Add new skills to resume, adding new skills to resume as you learn them is important, which helps profile more competitive.
4) Apply Learning to real-world problems, understanding and documenting the problem before solving is more important when it comes to real-world problems.
5) Soft Skills Development, soft skills like communication were highlighted as essential for developers.

Q4): Why are soft skills important for a CS Career? List 3 areas to focus on in order to develop your soft skills?

Soft skills are critical in a CS Career because they help with communication, teamwork and problem solving. Developers need to explain technical concepts to non-IT people and work well with teams. To develop soft skills, focus on communication, teamwork collaboration, and customer service. It is important to learn how to explain solutions clearly and engage in constructive feedback. Those skills make us more effective in jobs.

CSC-192 Seminar #3: Emerging Areas for CS Careers

Speaker: Alex Bonnifield, Solutions Consultant, SailPoint

Q5): Why is Ethics important for a CS Career? List 4 areas in CS where Ethical Dilemma's play a key role in guiding Policy decisions?

Ethics are important because those are responsible development and use of technology, secure users and society from hackers.

1) Data ownership: How to handle and secure data with privacy and consent.
2) AI and Machine Learning: Ethical use of AI, including bias and fairness in models like chatGPT.
3) Cybersecurity: Balancing security with user rights and freedoms.
4) Software Development: being transparent and honest in code, avoiding harmful or bad behavior.

Q6: List 3 strategies you would personally employ which would help you standout during a job interview?

1) Demonstrate Understanding of data ownership in AI: managing data securely and ethically, especially in AI system, and cybersecurity, which are highlighted as important in the video.
2) Showcase Soft Skills: ability like communication and solving business problems are important and should be emphasized and importantly demonstrate how it can be applied to business.
3) Highlight Continuous Learning: which is new to me but discussed in the video, and I would like to use some of the techniques like learning and earning online certification from industries.